Get Ready for the Indoor Season!
Now Is the Time to Select

Rugs, Floor Coverings and Draperies

It is not our purpose to throw cold water on the enjoyable times you are now having in the great outdoors, but the front porch, the cool, spacious lawns and such are things that will have to soon be forgotten. Cold, dreary days are just around the corner. Long days that must be spent indoors—they can be days of real comfort and cheer if the proper surroundings are provided.

NOW is the time to make your selections—our stocks are new, carefully chosen and well assorted—and you can buy at the lowest prices in years—often times in the items mentioned here, we have made the prices even lower than the market warrants. We repeat: "NOW is the time to select."

FORD IS ALONE AS BIDDER FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

Army Informs U. S. Farm Bureau No Other Offer Has Sufficient Backing.

By NORMAN HAPGOOD.

The American Farm Bureau Federation, which is the largest aggregation of farmers in the country, has taken an interest in the War Department's plan for Muscle Shoals. It has sent a letter to the War Department asking for a list of all the bids received for this Government property.

The War Department has answered that, outside of the Ford offer, there are no bids backed by enough substantial financial strength to make them worth considering. So the question is simplified. Up to date it is Ford or nobody.

I have long been a violent conservationist. But it is well to be clear about what we mean by conservation. Coal can be conserved in the sense of being kept. The less we use the more there will be for our children.

Conservation in U. S. Forests can be conserved, both in the sense of preventing improper cutting and in the sense of planting new trees. Indeed, it is little short of barbarous to allow more trees to be destroyed in any year than are planted.

But conservation in regard to water power has an entirely different meaning. We cannot prevent the water from running down a river, whether it is used or untouched, the same amount of water runs down the next day.

In water-power, conservation lies in use. If the force of the water is harassed, if it is made to work instead of running idly away, it does work that otherwise would be done by coal. The use of water is the conservation of coal.

Muscle Shoals has one other aspect, namely nitrogen. In that respect also use means conservation. Our food comes from the soil. The fertility of the soil depends on its having the proper content of nitrogen.

Air is hydrogen and nitrogen. The air is compressed into liquid. It is then distilled and the nitrogen separated. The nitrogen is then blown through ovens in which powdered carbide has been heated electrically to a white heat. The carbide catches the nitrogen as sand catches up water.

Dr. Caro's Estimate. The result is cyanamide, or air-fixed nitrogen, available either for war or agriculture. Further processes give ammonium nitrate, liquid ammonia, nitric acid, liquid ammonia nitrate, ammonium sulphate.

Perhaps it would be of interest to know what one of the most prominent experts in Germany said about Muscle Shoals from the military standpoint. Dr. Caro is one of the two men who worked out the process of getting nitrogen from the air. He was made minister of munitions when the war began. He says:

"Far more dangerous than the competition of nitrates from Chile appears to be the possibility of competition with artificial nitrogenous fertilizers produced in foreign countries. The largest of these (foreign lime nitrogen) plants is located in the United States in Alabama. Its situation is most excellent. It is connected with the Tennessee river, which has been made navigable. It is situated at a source of almost constant water-power, amounting to 400,000 horse-power, and is in a locality where all the raw materials of the cyanamide industry are found in the highest purity and at the lowest cost. This hint will suffice for the war aspect. More about the water-power aspect I shall give tomorrow. The farmers, whose activities I am calling attention to today are almost constant in the water power for its development of industry, but they are primarily interested in the question of whether or not this plant is to be so used as to increase the productiveness of their soil.

Mr. Pinchot states that Mr. Ford's offer of this part of his work lacks clearness. I have read the contract again, and I can only repeat that Mr. Pinchot ought to rewrite the provision and submit it.

What Mr. Ford suggests is that the fertilizer profits shall not exceed 8 per cent; that a board be created, designated by national farmers' organizations, containing two representatives of the company. And also one non-voting ex-officio representative of the Bureau of Markets of the Department of Agriculture.

Of course, this clause, like the rest of the proposal, is open to discussion, but it looks full of promise.

GIGANTIC DRUG TRAFFIC FOUND IN MISSOURI JAIL

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—A gigantic traffic in drugs has been discovered among convicts in the Missouri penitentiary. It is estimated that more than $100,000 in drugs is sold in a year in the prison.

Last week Government agents and detectives obtained confessions from four convicts, implicating several employees and guards. Samuel Hill, warden, estimates that 800 to 1,000 of the 2,300 convicts are drug addicts. Others place the figures as high as 70 per cent. A big shake-up at the penitentiary is expected.

The investigation disclosed that drugs reached the convicts through the trustees, parcel post packages and by strings let down outside the walls. Inside the walls the drugs were distributed by wholesalers, retailers and by runners.
